Puppy Classes

Puppy Shaping Classes: 10 - 16 weeks

The purpose of the Royvon Puppy Shaping classes are to teach the skills of positively shaping a puppy's desired behaviour as well as squash unwanted behaviour.

This is not a formal obedience class, rather a forum that provides appropriate socialisation, general education and knowledge of how to raise a happy, healthy and well balanced adult dog.

Royvon Puppy Shaping classes are on a 4 week rotation to enable new puppy owners to enrol into a class effective immediately, attending the first consecutive 4 classes to receive the complete Puppy Shaping course hands-on instruction. The classes include a pre-arranged induction with the Instructor once the booking has been confirmed to ensure the key puppy essential details are covered as early in the process as possible.

Puppy Foundation Classes: 16 - 28 weeks

The purpose of the Royvon Puppy Foundation classes are to give the puppy and owner a foundation in basic training and provide a forum for socialising with other dogs and people.

It is important to create a personalised approach to learning, therefore the course guidelines will be dictated by the individual and group progress made each week. Keeping in mind that an essential part of dog training is repetition, this progress will be reliant on the owners committing to practise between classes for most effective learning.

Various training methods will be introduced and used based upon the dog's breed, temperament and individual motivations. The owner's preferences, skills and limitations will also be taken into account. Training will take place in the Royvon outdoor training field or indoor training hall.

The Royvon Puppy Foundation classes run 6 consecutive weeks at one hour per week.

Puppy Module Courses

The Royvon Puppy Modular Courses are designed to take puppy and owner through an intensive, training regime over a strategically calculated period of time. While the dog trains at the school residentially for short spans of time, the owner is taught the skills at the end of each module, followed by a specifically outlined programme to follow at home in preparation for the next level of training.

The Modular courses are similar to the Royvon Complete Training Package, yet target younger dogs/puppies. It also includes owners who want to be more involved in their dog's training while behaviour is gradually shaped & instilled over a longer period of time

The modules are designed for dogs between the ages of 4 - 12 months and include 5-day residential training per module with one month owner training breaks between each Module. There are 3 modules in total.

Toilet Training

Royvon Toilet Training is a residential service that is open to puppies and adult dogs. Toilet training does require the dog to be under strict Trainer supervision at all times, therefore crate training is included in the service. Alternative specialty requirements are available upon request.

Crate Training

Crate training has many benefits for both the dog and owner. When introduced properly, the crate is a space that keeps the dog safe and provides a space of security. As important, and to prevent unwanted behaviours from developing, puppies/dogs need to learn that spending short periods of time alone is normal, as dependency on the owner promotes separation anxiety, excessive attention seeking, barking, destruction, inappropriate toileting, self mutilation and other possible outlets of stress. A stressed dog is not a happy dog.

All associations with the return to the crate will be positive. Owners will receive a comprehensive written training document on exactly what training routine has been established and what reinforcement methods have been used. The success of the programme will be a demonstration of the dog going to the crate willingly, happy and confident!

One-to-One Puppy Training & Puppy Consultations

One-to-One Puppy Training & Puppy Consultations are educational platforms for learning how to shape your new puppy's behaviour. They may be held in the home or at the school and will include an assessment, hands on training and puppy recommendations.
